

This coffee sleeve is the newest way to get what you need out of your coffee in the morning. This sleeve is meant to make your life easier, is reusable, and multi-functional. It fits on many different cup sizes and has a detachable handle. It allows you to not burn your hands on the coffee cup if you don't want to use the handle, but also gives you the choice of having the handle. This piece was designed because whenever you go and get coffee you are always using the disposable sleeves, and we wanted to make something that is not harmful to the environment. Other inspiration for this sleeve was having to choose between a sleeve or a handle, so we wanted something that was going to give you options. With the ability to remove the handle you can choose what is going to be easier for you that morning when you are on the run or traveling by car. We wanted to create something that is both appealing to the consumer, and unique. We also wanted it to be very user friendly so we designed it with eight places on this sleeve to attach the handle.
